

December 13, 2006

To: All Residents

From: www.goldenhillrentals.com

Re: Happy Holidays

Twas a week before Christmas and up on the Hill
Jose was working double time to finish projects. But still
The lights were not up yet and the trees were not lit
Bathrooms weren't painted; Bart threw a fit.

Alesia interviews new renters to see if they'd pay
And Nikki was keeping the creditors at bay.
Agatha was handling everything else in the way
And Lilliana swabbed decks, cleaned laundry rooms every day

Francisco cut palm fronds and cleaned up the weeds,
His sidekick was mowing and planting new seeds.
Raul wired porch lights. We hear Sulli's rants.
And thanks to Sun Pest there are very few ants.

Which bring us to you the resident, whom we hold dear,
No matter what happens we give you our ear.
Continue to let us know what we can do to improve.
We'll do that and more so that you won't move.

Hopes that 2007 is filled with surprises
Most of which will be more than mere guises
With fewest possible compromises
May all the wishes you have arise.

Wear your shirt out.